January 2018

Greetings business owner, friends and Hill Country Champions,

Texans want a Hill Country with a strong economy, a healthy environment, and resilience to extreme weather events like prolonged drought and catastrophic flooding. At the same time, population growth stresses the natural resources that are key to the Hill Country economy, beauty, cultural heritage, and quality of life. Infrastructure and planning decisions made today—including road projects and water pipelines—influence how and where tomorrow’s growth occurs in the Hill Country. Hill Country decision makers increasingly recognize the need for a regional vision that extends beyond traditional boundaries, protects shared values of economic growth and environmental resilience, and ensures a bright future for our region.

The Kent Butler Summit has occurred every 2 years since its inception in 2012, and provides an opportunity for decision makers, stakeholders, elected officials and business owners to come together to discuss innovative approaches to planning for a bright, resilient future for the Central Texas Hill Country. Inspired by the visionary nature of Kent Butler, this Summit provides an opportunity for learning, networking, and sharing ideas across some of the most rapidly developing communities of Central Texas.

We’re inviting you to become a sponsor of the Kent Butler Summit — a specialized opportunity to promote your business, service and/or product and to affiliate with what will be a thoughtful, informed conversation about the future of our region. Details on sponsorship options are in the attached one page sponsorship information sheet.

We hope you will join the conversation about effective regional planning that is good for both people and the environment, and help plan for a Hill Country that continues to make Texas proud.

Thank you for your consideration!

Sincerely,

Katherine Romans

Executive Director, Hill Country Alliance
